TF Hypertension

Activity Report of the Thematic Federation (TF) on Hypertension (2018-2019)

As mentioned in our previous reports, the TF has since its installation, decided to focus in first instance on the awareness of the population toward high blood pressure. It has been repeatedly documented that blood pressure is insufficiently controlled even in patients that were detected and in whom treatment was started. Our hypothesis is that by increasing awareness to hypertension and especially its treatment, the prevalence of the figures in the population could be improved. Therefore, this main goal has been further worked out during the period 2018-19.

Unfortunately, physicians themselves do not seem to be controlled better than the general population. Blood pressure measurements made during the UEMS meetings appeared to be surprisingly higher than what could be anticipated. With this background, measurements were repeated at the time of the last UEMS meeting in Brussels.

Measurements were made on 86 subject, most of them doctor-specialists. Results (see curves systolic and diastolic attached) were remarkably similar to those obtained during previous meetings. Mean systolic blood pressure was 139 mm Hg.; 39 subjects were at or above 140 mm Hg (45%); in case the new figure of 130 mm Hg would be used, 59 would be higher than 130 (69%). There are a few real high pressures up to 196 and 184 mm Hg. The mean diastolic pressure was 82 mm Hg; 24 were above 90 mm Hg. (28%). These results are very close to those obtained in 2017, in the same circumstances. They also are in concordance to published data and very close to what is seen in other professions and population groups of similar age.

Such findings set the stage and make clear that a lot of work still has to be done. We have described the possible reasons for these rather negative results ( see J. Hypertension, in previous report). One of our TF members from Slovakia (Dr. M. Dubrava) succeeded to elaborate on the main message of this paper and adapt our text published in J. Hypertension into the Slovakian language in the national journal "Geriatrics" 2018: 2: 51-55 (paper attached). The paper was very well recognized and served as tool to convince the hypertension population to follow the advices for prevention and treatment ad especially to continue treatment .

As said before, we need to add limitations in the interpretation of such data as these measurements are single figures, made completely unforeseen; still they were made by nurses very well trained in the technique, using measurement sets that are perfectly validated. If possible, we shall repeat such measurements in October 2020; we shall try to explore the possibilities to measure blood pressure during next meetings of UEMS and of other societies.

Obviously, to overcome the problem of hypertension and its insufficient control, we also need to work at the very beginning phase of high blood pressure. In that respect, members of the TF have engaged in talks largely focused on prevention. DC was invited to deliver a talk on prevention in general and in hypertension in particular during the World meeting of Hypertension in Paris, September 4, 2019. In that talk new views on prevention in the field of hypertension were proposed. Essential is the message that individuals in the population should know their risk factors and work on them. Last years , it has been claimed more and more that working on risk factors can be done with a better chance of success, if done in group (sports club, social groups, at work, students etc...). Experience from rehabilitation centers has learned us that approaching groups instead of individuals has a much better chance to succeed.

The other way to improve on prevention is detect in the population, individuals that present with a very early phases of organ changes; subjects (patients ) are very sensitive to the message that “early markers” are discovered on them as this makes them realizing that high blood pressure causes arm.

At the same meeting, DC was interviewed by several groups participating in the meeting such as for ex. the Congress Reports from Budapest insisting to give my views on the means for better prevention and increased awareness of hypertension in the population. A video was recorded and is available on the web. http://filmek.olo.hu/ESC\_2019/Denis\_Clement.mp4

From all of these data, it is clear that awareness toward hypertension should be further stimulated: still a lot to be done! Recordings at the time of meetings whatever, should be continued. Maybe the first goal could be to set up recordings of this type at other UEMS meetings were bigger groups of people are present. Unfortunately, we still do not get permission to make recordings in the EU Parliament. This would present a much larger possibility for contacts with MEP's at EU and maybe commissioners and their co-workers.

DC has had in the past months contacts with Mrs. Buchez, number one at DG Santé of EU with a quite constructive conversation. There also was a good conversation with Mr. Ryan of DG Santé who showed a series of the plans at DG Santé; unfortunately, direct help in the issue to increasing awareness does not seem to be their goal; still, the good news is that “Health” is appearing higher and higher in their agenda, as compared to what it was last years and this is encouraging.

An important issue the TF should work at is recruiting more new and “active” members who could come up with their ideas and plans for other projects. In that respect, closer collaboration with other specialisms or Working Groups would be more than welcome. Possibilities would be general internal medicine, nephrology, endocrinology. As soon as general practitioners will join UEMS, they could bring a lot of support to our projects.

SUMMARY

The TF on hypertension has actively continued to pursue its main goal: increase awareness to hypertension and by this way, improve control of blood pressure. This was done by measuring blood pressure at diverse opportunities: we repeated such measurement sessions at the UEMS meeting in Brussels October 2018. Results are largely similar to 2017 and thus, the problem is far from resolved. To help this further, the topic of awareness is broadened toward prevention and new ideas in prevention have been developed. Presentations have been made in several meetings and interviews given to journalists. We absolutely need to recruit new members of the TF hoping that these new members will come up with suggestions and projects.
